THE FUNERAL AREANGEMENTS.

As the legal points involved in these propolitions were such as seemed impossible of epecly solution, and as the time had come when some definite understanding regarding the funeral arrangements should be reached and formal announcement made, it was decided to advise that the remains be taken to the rotunda of the capitol Thursday, there to lie in state, watched over by its guards of honor from noon that day until noon of Friday, during which time the public should be given an opportunity to pay its last tribute of respect; that at noon on Friday funeral services be held in the senate chamber, and the remains should be taken to Rock Creek cemetery and temporably placed in a vault, to remain until a final resting place shall be selected and be prepared. Mrs. Logan having signified her assent to these arrangements, the congressional committee entered upon the duties.

The committee is as follows: Senators Callom, Stanford, Cocke, Allison, Beck, Hawley, Voothees, Hampton and Manderson. Its first formal meeting will take place at ten o'clock.

THE PALL BEARERS.

The following have been selected as pall besters General Simon Cameron, Hon. Roscoe Conkling, Hon. Robert Lincoln, Mr. Andrews, of Youngstown; Colonel Fred Grant, General Falichild, Mr. M. L. Leggett, of Cleveland, Ohio; Governor Jeremiah Rusk, of Wisconsin; General John C. Black, and Dr. Charles Mc-Millan, of the Loyal Legion.

THE OFFICIATING CLEEGYMEN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., December 28 .- Mrs. Logan received this morning a long telegram which was signed officially by the city clerk of Chicago, embodying the resolutions adopted by the city council last night. The council form-ally equests that the burial place of the dead statesman be selected in the city upon which he has conferred so much honor, and the site to be dedicated by the city to this purpose. The council appointed a committee to confer with the committees of the civic and military organizations in regard to the selection of a place of burial and to make arrangements for the reception and interment of the remains as announced last night. The decision is practically reached to have the funeral in the senate chamber next Friday, and then convey the re-

This arrangement seemed to lack nothing but the formality of assent by the park commissioner, and the senate committee was announced, and with others from various authorities in Chicago, suggesting other portions of the city, were taken into considerati.n by members of the Illinois delegation, who were at hand; and, at the same time, a proposition of burial in the grounds of the Soldier's Home, near this city, originally favored by Mrs. Logan, was revived and further discussed.

General Sheridan, representing the board of commissioners of the Soldiers' Home, was consulted, and expressed doubts of the power of the board to act in the absence of congressional authority.

Mrs. Logan naturally wished that the selection, when made, should be one which should leave no question of title to be settled hereafter, and that the spot should be one where in the fullness of time her own final resting place might be made beside that of her hus-

THE FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Calumet place to the capitol, on Thursday morning, will take place with as little caremony as is consistent with the proprieties of an occasion of such gravity.

The procession from the capitol to the cemetery on Friday, however, will afford an opportunity for civic and military organizations, committees and citizens to testify their respect to the memory of the dead. The details of these arrangements have not been concluded, but will be announced in due time by the committee, through its executive officer, the sergeant-at-arms of the senate, who will have immediate charge of the entire proceeding. The family of General Logan extend invitations to the various societies, military, social and Masonic, of which General Logan extend invitations to the various societies, military, social and Masonic, of which General Logan was a member to attend the funeral or send delegations from their bodies for that purpose. THE TENDER OF A VAULT.

The vault in which the remains will be deposited is that of Mrs. Hutchinson, whose kindly tender this afterooon was thankfully accepted by Mrs. Logan.

Among the subjects to be discussed by the self ate committee tomorrow is the issuance of invitations to the president and cabinet, supreme court, house of representatives and the diplomatic corps. Were the senate in session, these would go out in its name; but being in a recess, precedent will have to be looked up. For the same reason, the two houses will probably not be formally called to order, but members will attend in their individual capacities.

EX-CONFEEDRATES TO ATTEND. EX-CONFEEDRATES TO ATTEND.

A provement is on foot to have ex-confederate solidiers represented in the funeral procession that will follow the remains of Senator Logan. Many ex-confederates have expressed a desire to participate, and it is probable that a place will be provided for them in the procession. It has been decided that General Logan's remains will be taken to the rotunda of the capitol Thursday, there lie in state until Friday, when the funeral services will be held and the body then be taken to Rock Creek cemetery and placed in a vault to await arrangements for final burial.

A SUBSCRIPTION FUND.

A SUBSCRIPTION FUND.

Captain George E. Lemon, of the National Tribune, this morning, started a subscription fund for the benefit of Mrs. Logan with one thousand dollars, and sent invitations to hundreds of General Logan's friends and admirers throughout the country, asking them to contribute. The Western Union telegraph company tendered the free use of its wires for transmitting subscriptions. Responses are now coming in rapidly, and one thousand dollar subscriptions have been received from Senator Sawyer, Hon. Wm. Walter Phelps, John B. Drake, of Chicago; Governor Alger, of Michigan; George M. Pullman, and others. The receipts in five hours from the time the subscription was started amounted to ten thousand dollars.

The senate committee, acting through the segeant-at-arms will have immediate charge of the remains. Colonel Kennedy announces that by request of Mrs. Logan, General Sheridan will be in charge of the procession, which will escort the remains from Calumet Place to the capitol. APPEAL FOR MRS. LOGAN.

New York, December 28.—The publishers of General Logan's book, "The Great Conspiracy," received a letter today from W. B. Taylor, private and confidential secretary of General Logan, in which he says that the receipts from the sale of that book will be about the only legacy left to Mrs. Logan, and suggesting that if this fact could be made known to the public the patriotic impulses of grateful people might through this channel place her beyond want. "Knowing Mrs. Logan's circumstances as well as I do," adds the general's secretary, "I beg of you to take immediate steps to place this matter before the public." APPEAL FOR MRS. LOGAN. The DAY AT THE HOUSE.

The day at Calumet Place has been one of comparative quiet. Mrs. Logan has remained in her room almost continuously, suffering somewhat from a sense of weariness, of which hitherto she had hardly been conscious, though otherwise physically well. She has been represented in the parlors, as heretofore, by her and and Major Tucker. Details of Grand Army men, marines and soldiers have performed are formalities of guard duty.

HUNTING A BURIAL PLACE.

During the day correspondence was almost continually in progress between Senator Cullom, representing the Illinois delegation, and authorities in Chicago for the purpose of reaching a definite understanding with regard to a site to set apart for the tomb and monument. Until late this afternoon little doubt was entertained that everything would be arranged

BURNING OF THE HAYES, A Fine Steamer of the Mississippi Destroyed

CAIRO, December [28—A fire at six o'clock this morning destroyed the Mississippi Valley Transportation company's steamer R. S. Hayes and four barges, and the Anchor Line steamer City of Natchez, while lying at the bank. The fire is supposed to have originated in aft cabin of the steamer Hayes, soon enveloping the whole boat, burning her to the water's edge. The fire spread to the City of Natchez, lying just below the Hayes, and in a few moments she, too, was a mass of flames. Barges alongformality of assent by the park commissioner, and the senate committee was announced, and the sergeant-at-arms began the preliminaries of his arrangements according to the plan. About 4 o'clock, however, a telegram from the park commissioners was received announcing that upon consulting their attorney grave doubt had been raised as to their power, except under authority of a special act of the legislature to set apart a site in the public park and give a guarantee that it should be reserved in perpetuity for the resting place of the general, however much the members of the commission might personally desire to do so. They had little doubt that the legislature, when it convenes, would take the necessary steps to meet Mrs. Logan's wishes, but being aware of the desirability of concluding the matter without delay, they suggested and formally tendered a place at the head of Grand boulevard, a spacious reservation just at the entrance to South park, and a sightly spot for the proposed monument. They also propose to change the name of the thoroughfare to Logan boulevard. This proposition, together with others from various authorities in Chicago, suggesting other portions of the city, were taken into consideration by members of the side of the Hayes loaded with cotton, soda, ash and sundries also took fire and were completely destroyed. Augusta, Ga., December 28.—[Special.]— Hamburg is in flames tonight at 12:30.o'clock. The residents of that little Carolina village, opposite Augusta, were awakened from their slumbers by cries of fire, and ran from their houses to find the principal business houses in flames, which soon spread, and burned an entire block. The fire originated in D. Lipfield's store, supposed to be caused from a coal dropping from the grate. The building was entirely consumed, together with Mr. Josiah Sibley's large wooden stores and dwelling houses; also Mr. Rubenstein's brick store house. Both buildings were insured; for a small amount, which will not nearly cover the loss.

MASON CITY, Ia., December 28.—Hogs are dying in large quantities in the southern part of the county with what seems to be a disease of the lungs. Some drop dead instantly, while others linger several days, refusing to eat or drink anything, and finally die. Some farmers have lost their entire herd. The hog cholera is also prevalent in the western part of this county, and in Haucock hogs are dying by the score.

A Fearful Crash. Sr. Louis, December 28.—At 2 p. m. today the water tank on the refrigerating house of the Heim Brewing company, in East St. Louis, fell through the roof, killing John Keefe, an employe, and braking the pipes so as to liberate a quantity of ammonia gas, which was inhaled by two men, whose names are unknown. It is feared they will die. A REMARKABLE SUICIDE.

Bensation in Insurance Circles-The Numero Beneficiaries-Will the Companies Pay the Folloiss-Heavy Litigation Fromised Over the Master-A Remarkable Story.

NEW YORK, December 27.—[Special Corre spondence.]—Insurance men of New York are very much interested in the remarkable developments made in the full story published in the World of the suicide of John Tyler alias A. Allen, who died on the night of the 12th of last November at a hotel in South Norwalk, Connecticut, leaving life policies on various insurance and cooperative companies to the extent of $315,000.

On Friday morning at 9 o'clock he was found dead in his room. The body was still seated on a chair, leaning heavily against the table, on which were found certain papers and letters freshly indited. Among them were three prescriptions for "Magendie's solution of morphia," signed "for physician's own use, R. "cown." There was an unaddressed postal card to J. J. Lutkin, beginning "Dear Jim," and speaking of some patent business. Another card was addressed "Dear Sister."
Death had come while he was writing another letter, in the upper corner of which was jotted "Take 8x4x8 grains Magendie solution of morphia." On another sheet of paper was written, "9 o'clock. Don't feel it much." "12 o'clock. Feel it more."

Still another letter was found addressed to his sister, Mrs. Foote, "The Barrington, N. Y.
City." A half-torn telegram completed the findings. It reads:

SOMETHING ABOUT THE SUICIDE.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE SUICIDE.

"A. Allen" was a fictitious name. The man, who died, unattended by friend or kin, was John Tyler, stock speculator, bohemian, spendthrift. He was a member of the Boston family of that name. The Tylers are of ancient English and New England ancestry. John Tyler, Sr., was a highly esteemed citizen of Boston, and held a high public office at one time. John Tyler's brothers, Philo S. Tyler and Edward S. Tyler, carry on an extensive iron business at No. 80 Uliver street, and reside with their mother, Mrs. Martha A, Tyler, now sixty-nine years old, at No. 360 Beacon street. There is one sister married, by name Mrs. Foote, now living in the Barrington flats in this city.

John Tyler came to this city about twenty years ago. He was well educated, had been reared in the lap of luxury, and from his early youth had been used to all that the very liberal allowance his fond mother gave him could bring. In this city he at once set out on the rambling, aimless path he was pursuing so diligently at the time of his death. While not a heavy drinker habitually, "Jack" Tyler was always ready for a day and night with the boys, and at such diversions dropped more money than any of his companions. Tyler went west about ten years ago, and after making the circuit of the leading cities there, landed in San Francisco, where he embarked in enterprises similar to those he carried on in Wall street. After becoming entangled in a bold banking scheme in San Francisco, he left the city and traveled southward into Central America, thence to South America, and from there to London. Most of the money Tyler spent in these travels came from the maternal purse.

A CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY.

The insurance companies say that Tyler in-

The insurance companies say that Tyler ingurated stem of taking out policies since December, 1885. He averred when making application for a policy that he had not taken out policies in any other company, but as time went on and the number of his policies began to increase, insurance men learned of it and in some cases his application was refused on account of the suspiciously large sums in which he was elsewhere insured. A notable instance of this was his attempt to get a policy in the he was elsewhere insured. A notable instance of this was his attempt to get a policy in the Equitable Life insurance company, of which, it is said, he asked to be insured in the amount of $24,000. The amount was cut down to $12,000, and was then rejected once for all.

That Tyler was sincere in his determination to commit suicide by taking poison is set forth in an affidavit in the possession of the insurance officers. The deponent surery that in October in an affidavit in the possession of the insurance officers. The deponent swore that in October, 1884. Tyler and James J. Lutkin, of this city, and himself met at the Stevens house, on lower Broadway. Lutkin is now a member of the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum exchange, and was formerly a druggist carrying on an extensive business at the corner of Broadway and Thirty-second street, where he was well known as an expert chemist and compounder. At the Stevens house meeting the deponent swore that Tyler asked Lutkin to tell him some poison which would make death come easily and painlessly. Lutkin explained the workings of several, dwelling especially on the effects of morphine and opium. The deponent remembered none of these except one. It was 'Magendie's solution of morphia,' the formula being 12 x 8-4. Tyler made a memorandum of this information.

being 12 x 8-4. Tyler made a memorandum of this information.

THE ALLEGED CONSPIRACY.

The Tyler family, counsel says, received with unfeigned surprise the news of the son's action in taking out so many policies. They regarded it as only a whim and a means by which he meant to pay them back what he had borrowed. The insurance men-claim that Tyler named his brother, mother and sister as beneficiaries simply to avert suspicion from his scheme with the other parties. It would be natural, they allege, that Tyler would name his relatives as beneficiaries. If he named only his near friends the insurance companies might be suspicious and deny his applications. It is also claimed that the policies in favor of his family are for the most part only those in which a suicide clause occurs, and in which the death of the policy-holder by suicide would release the companies. The policies in favor of his friends, it is averred, were in companies in which death by suicide made no difference in the payment of claims. The extent of this operation, even if it was actually attempted, the reporter was not able to ascertain.

An official of one of the companies said:

it was actually attempted, the reporter was not able to ascertain.

An official of one of the companies said:
"Not a cent of that money will ever be paid."
It is not known that there has been any concerted action looking towards resistance as yet, but one of the companies at least has instituted a rigid investigation, the alleged facts in which are given in this article. The evidence collected makes a pile of documents a foot thick. Alleged conspiracies against insurance companies have always aroused peculiar interest, the matter being one that comes home to every policy-holder."

HIS WIFE REFUSES TO TALK.

the matter being one that comes home to every policy-holder."

HIS WIFE REFUSES TO TALK.

The wife of John Tyler is now living at No. 19 East Fifty-ninth street in a flat house, where she lived with her husband before his death. Mrs. Tyler asked to be excused from saying anything. Neither would she give any information as to what, if anything, she had heard her husband say about committing suicide. In an affidavit made to the insurance people, Mrs. Tyler says that she supposed she had been named as beneficiary to some extent. Her husband had told her so. She also averred that her husband suffered from neuralgic pains, and that at times she had given him an eighth of a grain of morphine to relieve him.

THE BENEFICIARIES.

The sum of the policies aggregates $315,600. Of this, Henry J. Hubbard, who is cashier of the Columbia bank in this city, is beneficiary, according to the statement, for $45,000; James J. Lutkin, who was off and on a partner in Tyler's business speculations, for $10,000; John McKay, keeper of Boston hotel, who knew Tyler, for $10,000; Martha A. Tyler, the deceased's mother, for $23,000; Mrs. Foote, his sister, for $5,000. Thomas S. Patterson, a business partner and friend, for $10,000; Philo S. Tyler, a brother for $43,000; Miss Frances Wells, for $10,000; Frank T. Elder, a friend, for $5,000; Fred D. Smith, a partner, for $4,000; J. Herrick Henry lawyer, at $2 Liberty street, for $3,000, and Zellah Misell, wife of David Misell, Tyler's friend and partner, for $13,000. The remaining sum of $124,000 is in policies, the beneficiaries of which are unknown.

The insurance companies allege that they have proof that many of the premiums on Tyler's policies were paid by those who were named as his beneficiaries. After Tyler's family refused to have anything to do with him, and withdrew pecuniary assistance, Philo Tyler, his brother, oftered that if he would settle down in any New England town he would be allowed $150 per month. This offer was made through a friend whom Tyler had sent to intercede with the family for money. This friend makes affidavit that Tylor replied to him as follows:

"I am a man who must have money. I don't propose to be a pauper, dependent on outside friends and the good fellows who help me to get alony. If my family won't help me I will commit suicide, but you may be sure I won't leave the boys in the hole. I don't propose to leave you without a dollar, and if you will furnish the money to pay for a premium I'll take out a $10,000 policy in some life insurance company and name you as the beneficiary."

The friend in his affidavit swears that he said

The friend in his affidavit swears that he said to Tyler that he would not be associated with any such scheme, and told Tyler he ought to be ashamed of himself to make such a proposition. To this Tyler is said to have replied that his only purpose was to serve a friend who might thus have a little money to fall back on some time.

Of the insurance companies involved, there are but comparatively few of the old-line stock companies. The larger amount of the insurance was written in various co-operative associations. The question of the payment of the policy, therefore, interests directly a very great number of persons, as in these associations payment of policies is made by a direct assessment upon the members.

"In the Birmingham district there are 21 large coke furnaces in operation or building, with an estimated capacity for 1888 of 750,000 gross tons of fron. The Chattanooga district has 15 coke and 13 charcoal furnaces, with a capacity for 1888 of 420,000 tons of coke iron and 100,000 tons of charcoal iron. The Shef-field district has 5 large coke furnaces now building, with a capacity for 1888 of 200,000 tons of coke iron, and 4 charcoal furnaces that will produce annually 45,000 tons of fron. The total estimated product of iron in the three states of Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia for 1888 will be 1,515,000 gross tons, of which Alabama will produce 1,040,000 tons; Tennessee 425,000, and Georgia 50,000 tons. All the coke furnaces except one are supplied with brick stoves and are of the best modern type."

"Can you give in brief a history of the development of the coal and iron industry in the sonthwest?"

General Warner could, with the assistance of his two friends, Mr. Shook and Professor Killebrew. And here it is: "The pioneer in the manufacture of coke-iron in the south was General J. W. Wilder, of Chattanooga, formerly of Indiana, who built the first coke furnace at Rockwood, Tenn., in 1867, and the second in 1872, for the Roane Iron company. The furnaces have been successfully and profitably run ever since, the Roane Iron company paying regular 6 per cent dividends on a capital of $1,000,000. The most important single factor in the iron trade of this section is the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, which lately absorbed the Pratt Coal and Iron company, of Birmingham, Ala. The capital of this company is $10,000,000, and it now has in operation five large furnaces—two at Birmingham, and one at South Pittsburg. It owns 300,000 acres of ore and coal lands in Alabama and Tennessee, including the famous Pratt and Sewance seams. This company in 1888 will make 1,200 tons of pig iron a day. Enoch Ensley is president, T. T. Hillman vice-president, and Mr. Shook, here, is the general manager.

"The

amount of money in the enterprise. The property passed into the hands of Senator Joseph E. Brown, of Georgia, W. C. Morrill, of Atlanta, and Mr. Sevier, of Boston, who have operated it with great success.

"A strong English company bought some 140,000 acres of coal and iron lands in Tennessee and built the transfer of the coal and built the two furnaces at South Pittsburg. This company also had bad fortune and sold out to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company in 1882, which is now successfully operating the furnaces. This latter company was organized in 1866, and built the Cowan furnace, which has been a success; this year it has amalgamated with the Pratt Coal and Iron company.

"In 1885, Sir Titus Salt and his English asso ciates completed two large furnaces at Dayton, Tenn., on the line of the Cincinnati Southern Tenn., on the line of the Cincinnati Southern railroad, and are now running one of them. The first furnace was built at Birmingham by T. T. Hillman in 1879-80. I saw the site of Birmingham in 1870 as a cotton field, and could have bought the land for $10 an acre. Now the city has a population of 35,-000, and lots are selling for $1,000 a front foot. Colonel J. W. Sloss built two large furnaces at Birmingham in 1881-82; Messrs. De Barxleber and Underwood built the Mary Pratt furnace in 1882, and the Messrs. Woodward the Wheeling furnace, near Birmingham, in 1881-82. The Eureka company, of which J. D. Farris, of Cincinnati, is president, built the two furnaces at Oxmoor, six miles from Birmingham, in 1876-77.

"Citico furnace, Chattanooga, was built by the Citico Furnace company, H. S. Chamberlain, president, in 1874. This furnace and the two Rockwood furnaces are now making Bessemer pig iron from the Cranberry ore on the line of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad. This iron will be used by the Rosne Iron company at its mill in Chattanooga for making Bessemer steel rails, beginning in February. This will be the inception of the manufacture of steel rails in the south. Captain H. S. Chamberlain is also president of this company.

"There are now building in this region eighteen new furnaces of large size and best modern type, as follows: Nine at or near Birmingham, five at Sheffield, three at South Pittsburg and one at Chattanooga. In 1898 there will be forty-one coke and seventeen charcoal furnaces in the region, not counting some small charcoal furnaces which may be regarded as abandoned, with a total assured production, as I have already told you, of 1,500,000 gross tons.

rapid development of the coal and fron industry of the south are Enoch Ensley, T.

Mr. Shook and Professor Killebrew are southern men by birth and democrats "by name only," while General Warner was from Ohio, but is now a southern man by virtue of twenty-five years' residence in Alabama, and identification with southern interests. They all agree in testifying to the pleasant relations existing in their region between all classes of men, without regard to nativity, war or politics. All these questions are now discussed with as much noncensiance, as Professor Killebrew says, as the Polaponesian war.

BALTIMORE, December 28.—In its annual review of the industrial progress of the south, the Baltimore Manufacturers' Record, in this week's issue, will say that 1886 has been the most remarkable year, in many respects, in the history of the southern states, and more has been accomplished for the prosperity and progress of the south than ever before in any year. This is shown in the enormous investi capital in industrial enterprises, and in the growth of confidence among northern and European investors in the stability of the south's iron and other manu-

Great Growth of the Industry-Eighteen New Furnaces Building.

The leading coal and iron men of the south who have been in this city during the last ten days, will go home to spend the Christmas holidays thoroughly satisfied with the business of the year and more than hopeful for the future. And they have good reason to be. The time for which some of them have been waiting for nearly twenty years, when northern capitalists would be convinced not only only of the safety but of the immense profits to be gained from the investment of their money in developing the almost fabulously rich coal and fron resources of Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia has come at last. Furnaces throughout the region are increasing their capacity; new furnaces are building or are contracted for; fresh markets are taking the products; iron workers are arranging to establish themselves in this favored region, where they can buy their raw material cheaper than anywhere else on this continent; new railroads are being built and old ones extended, and, in short, the Birmingham, Chattanooga and Sheffield districts are just now enjoying a "boom," such as no other section of the south ever saw since the country was first settled: and, what The leading coal and iron men of the south

General Warner, Mr. Shook and Professor Killebrew were at the Fifth Avenue hotel on Friday.

"I suppose you know," said General Warner, "that there are three great centers of coal and iron production in the states of Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia—Birmingham. Alabama, Chattanooga, Tennessee, and Sheffield, Alabama. The large charcoal-iron producing region of west Tennessee, and on the line of the Selma division of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, in Alabama, are subdivisions of the main districts.

"The great Clinton vein of red hematite or fossiliferous ore, belonging geologically to the upper Silurian period, beginning in the state of New York, extends with great persistency to Birmingham, Ala., there attaining its greatest thickness of twenty-six feet. It is six feet thick at Rising Fawn, Ga. The brown hematite ores, from which all the charcoal-iron of these states is now made, and which is also largely used by the coke furnaces for mixture with the red hematite ores, are at present most largely developed in Alabama, along and contiguous to the Selma division of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, and in Hickman and Wayne counties, Tennessee, while great deposits, as yet untouched, are found in Franklin county, Ala, on the line of the Sheffield and Birmingham railroad, now being rapidly built by Messrs, Ensley, Parish, Shook and their associates, and elsewhere in Alabama and Tennessee. These ores, when cleanly mined, will yield raw, that is without roasting to expel the moisture, from 45 to 50 per cent of iron; and calcined from 50 to 55 per cent. The red ores are all worked raw, and yield from 40 to 45 per cent of iron.

"The coal supply of these districts is inexfrom 50 to 55 per cent. The red ores are all worked raw, and yield from 40 to 45 per cent of iron.

"The coal supply of these districts is inexhaustible, and covers an area of 5,000 square miles in Tennessee, with from one to three valuable seams, the best coking seam being the Sewance, which is 500 square miles in extent. In Alabama it covers an area of 6,000 square miles, embracing the Warrior, Cahawba and Coosa fields, with three or four workable seams, each from four to seven feet in thickness, and mostly coking coal. Of these the Pratt seam has hitherto furnished by far the greatest amount of coal, but the good coking qualities of the other veins have been proven. The production of the Pratt mine is now 2,500 tons a day, and of the Sewance 1,500 tons.

"Each of the subdivisions of this great coal and iron field has its ore and coal in close proximity, and limestone of the best quality for furnace purposes is also found in great abundance near the ore. The new city of Sheffield is built on a limestone buff on the Tennessee river, from 80 to 100 feet high. The cost of CARTERSVILLE, Ga., December 28 .- [Special.] A terrible murder is reported from Rogers's station, where May Simmons, a colored girl of sixteen, chopped her stepfather to pieces. She compelled her younger sister, Rosa, to pack the edy away in a trunk. When questioned as to the crime. May said a stranger entered the house and murdered her father. Subsequently she confessed that she committed the crime herself. Her mother was absent in Atlanta. In her absence the old man attempted to outrage May, when she successfully resisted him. After he fell asleep, she dealt him six deathly cuts with an ax. The coroner's jury brought in a finding of murder in the first degree. The negroes talk of lynching May.

WILL THERE BE A DUEL?

A Hot Passage of Compliments Between a Ductor and an Editor.

EATONNO, Ga., December 28.—[Special.]—Rumors have reached this place from Milledgoville that an affair of honor is pending in the old capital which promiese to be a state sensation. On the 11th of this month the Milledgoville Chronicle, edited by Mr. T. H. Morris, published the following, under the head of "A Dead Issue."

There is one thing we desire to call attention to, and suggest that Baltiwin county sick a pin right there for future guidance. An aggravated fight has, for the past few years, been made upon the state lunatic asylum in our county politics. Why Baldwin should be more interested in crippling the state's great charity than any other county in the state, is beyond our comprehension. But the fact exists, and the fight has been made. Dr. Kenan, now a legislator from this county, led the attack. Dr. Kenan, be it remembered, at one time held a high position in that in stitution, but under charges so grave, that for his family's sake they have never been published, was expelled by direction of an investigating committee of the legislature, He sought revenge in branding the institution corrupt in its management, and busted himself in trying to tear down the reputation of all the officials that were connected with it. Upon the streets, and out into the by-ways he went, circulating the report that rottemess existed there, and that he alone was able to expose it. He clamered for revenge, and sought an election to the legislature as a means of recking his revenge upon it. He submitted his claims to the democratic party, but was repulsed. He concluded that he would fare better with a different element, and in the last election as a means of recking his revenge upon it. He submitted his claims to the democratic party, but was repulsed. He concluded that he would fare better with a different element, and in the last election as a means of recking his revenge upon it. He submitted his claims to the democratic party, but was repulsed. He concluded t that has been east upon it, and drives this issue from local politics. For this we should be thank ful.

Assoon as Dr. Kenan saw the above article, he denounced its author as "a malicious liar," and is represented by his friends as resolved to have satisfaction. On the other hand, it is known that Mr. Morris is determined and unchangeable, and it is stated that he has not one word to retract of his published statement. Efforts are being made to find ground upon which to settle the differences, but it is hard to predict the outcome where two such self-willed men are concerned.

The Elberton Sporting club had a match hunt on Monday. Professor R. F. Wright and Mr. W. C. Pressly were chosen captains of the two squads. The day was fine, and the club did some fine shooting. Five hundred and twelve points were brought in. Professor Wright's squad succeeded in bringing in the largest number. Mr. T. A. Tate won the Collier champion medal, killing sixty birds.

Booming Real Estate in Columbus, COLUMBUS, Ga., December 28.—[Special.]— There were two important transfers of real esplace, just beyond Rose Hill, to Mr. D. R. Bize for $6,500. Mr. Bize also purchased the Harrison place, adjoining that of Dr. Bruce, for $3,500. There are rumors of a syndicate to boom property in that locality, but nothing has yet been made public.

Burgiary in Rockmart. ROCKMART, Ga., December 28.—[Special.]—Last Saturday night, between closing time and next morning, a store in Rockmart was entered and the safe was blown open. The sum of $2,000 was taken, $1,250 of which had been that day deposited by the tax collector of Polk county.

Grand Christmas Tree-The Programme Individus Generosity-A Grand Dinner-A Pleasant Let-ter-The City Court-The Council Pro-ceedings-Personal Paragraphs.

MACON, Ga., December 28.-[Special.]-It has now grown to be a custom to give the or-phans of the Methodist Home a Christmas treat. Two years ago the movement was started, and about thirty-seven dollars was donated by the charitable for that purpose. Last year the ex-periment was repeated, and about sixty-five dollars was obtained. This year the list ran up to about one hundred and thirty dollars. Thus the good work goes on, and grows from year to the good work goes on, and grows from year to year. A committee consisting of Mrs. Emory Winship, Mrs. C. M. Wiley, Mrs. J. P. Flanders, Mrs. Newsome, Mrs. Sam Singleton, Mrs. I. N. Hardeman and Mrs. Ida L. Ellis had charge of the natter, and the Christmas tree, a beautiful holly set up in one of the parlors of the Home, was loaded down with gifts from Santa Claus. The fifty orphans, with the kind-hearted matrons and attendants, all received presents of a suitable kind. The exercises began with a song, "Christmas

Carrol," sung by Miss Jessie Bivins, assisted by the children of the Home, whose quiet, childish voices rang out right merrily. This was followed by a prayer from Rev. Mr. Lavett, of First street church, in an appropriately short prayer. The word appropriately is used ad-visedly, for it would have been a heartless exercises on these impatient little ones; with the laden Christmas tree before their eyes. A second song, 'eleking for Me," purposely cut down to a single stanza, followed, and then Colonel I. N. Hardeman menuted the platform and becan to distribute followed, and then colonel I. N. Hardeman mounted the platform and began to distribute the offerings. Benevolent Dr. Payne stood by, watching the little ones with a look of intense gratification, as one after another came forward and received his or her gift:

Aside from the toys and nick-nacks, the thoughtful ladies looked to the substantial comfort of the children in a sensible manner.

They presented each one of the larger girls with a cloak, gossamer and overshoes, and the older boys with axes and other utensils. Hosiery, handkerchiefs and other useful articles of clothing were given, and none went away unbappy.

Among the denors, Messrs. Lyons & Cline, with their se ustemed big-heartedness and CIL. O'Gorman & Co., of the Empire store, who are always in the first ranks of worthy charity, gave most liberally, and the goods purchased of them were sold at half price.

Among the ladies who donated liberally were Mrs. Newsome and Mrs. Gresham, whose contributions were very generous. Other la-dies responded most liberally, and Dr. Robin-son, of Eufaula, Ala., sent in his dollar, as is

After the gifts were all distributed, the visitors, among whom was Secretary Lamar, were conducted to the large dining hall, where the tables were loaded down with substantial food, delicacies, and all the good things one finds on a genuiue Christmas board. There were cakes and confections, fruits and candies, all piled up untal the tables tottered, and when the bell rang for dinner the little ones appeared with happy faces, their pleasure divided between the conjugation and the general presents and the general sections. joyment of their presents and the generous repast set before them. LAMAR IN MACON.

The Popular Interest in His Movements-Something About His Marriage

Macon, Ga., December 28.—[Special.]—Secretary L. Q. C. Lamar is looking exceedingly well. As he stepped out of Loh's barber shop today, with his ruddy, smooth shaven face, and his portly form enveloped in a light overcoat, he looked the embodiment of the southern gentleman of the olden time. He bids fair to live many years longer. Certain newspaper correspondents are terribly wrought up over the gossip concerning the honorable gentleman's expected marriage. He, as a matter of course, has sensibilities too delicate to talk on the subject where the name of a lady whom he has known and esteemed for a life-time is inseparably connected. Consequently, if there is anything in it the average reporter has a hard time finding out anything about it.

Rumors of various sorts are constantly afloat.

Rumors of various sorts are constantly afloat, but nothing definite is known. The lady is naturally of a very retiring disposition, and for that reason your correspondent has refrained from mentioning her name and from publishing the gossip that is current.

Today, when two newspaper men got in a carriage and drove away in the direction of "the Hill," half a hundred citizens exclaimed; "Ah, there!" and held their breath, and surmised and cogitated. The destination of the two scribes was, of course, the Orphans' Home, but the hungry cars felt ithe merry jingle of wedding bells, and as the half a hundred caught their breath again, they murmured "Ah, breath again, they murmured

Rochester, N. Y., December 20, 1886.—Messrs. Flynn, Buckalew, Brantly and others—Kind Friends: I arrived home safely with pleasant recollections of my southern trip.

Among the many places I visited there is one-city that will ever be dear to me. That is Macon, Georgia. The hearty welcome and whole-souled hospitality was as unexpected as it was pleasant. In fact, the many kindnesses showered upon me made it quite embarrassing. In fact, the many kindnesses snowered upon ac made it quite embarrassing.

Since my return I have frequently told my acquaintances that the people of the north did not know the people of the south, and that a visit would change their opinion. As this is the season of "peace on earth, and good will toward man," I take the liberty of sending you a few Christmas tokens to show you that I am not ungrateful. Hoping they will be accepted in the spirit they are given, and wishing each and all a merry Christmas and happy New Year, I remain your little northern friend,

THE MULE WALKED OFF,

And Left the Murderer Swinging in the Air -- A Wierd Scene. CARNESVILLE, Ga., December 23.—[Special.] in describing the recent lynching of Sanders, the Register says that on Saturday night a notice was left at the jail, stating that Sanders would be lynched on the following night, and that Mr. Ivie and his family, who live in the jail, and the prisoners, need feel no alarm, that no barm was intended to any one but Sanders. About 9 o'clock on Sunday night little squades from were seen collecting on the square, and of men were seen collecting on the square, and at 10:30 a large body of mounted men rode into town. They halted with the head of the col-umn near Tabor's store, and sat for some time silent and motionless as an army of spectres. The purpose for which they halted, what-ever it may have been, having been accom-plished, they moved off in the direction of the Only a portion of the crowd entered the jail yard, a large number, probably a majority, remaining with the horses. They were met at the jail door by Sheriff McConnell, who remoustrated with them without avail. Sanders was tied, brought out of the jail, taken up behind one of the men, and the party moved off in the direction from whence they came. At the forks of the road, a mile and a quarter north-east of Carnesville, the party halted and built a large fire, and decided the fate of their prisoner. They appeared to act through a comm

SANDERS CONFESSES

An opportunity was given Sanders to make a statement, which was as follows:

I killed Swilling because he chosed me two weeks age. Rachel Kimball had nothing to do with the killing, but we had talked about it and she knew of it. We had no row that night, I went to bed about 8 o'clock, slept awhile, but up and went out an dgot the ax, waiked to the bed where John was askep. He was Iving on his right side and I struck him with the edge of the ax ou the test side of the head just above the ear. Mrs. Swilling raised up in the bed and ballooed, "O Lord, papa!" I struck her on the top of the head with the blade of the ax. They both struggled, but neither spoke after i struck them. I turned to the bed where the little boys were sleeping and struck them on the heads with the blade of the ax. About that time the baby cried, and I killed it with the ax handle. I then put oil on the beds, set them on fire, went into the tack room, laid down and remained until the fire smoked me out. I ran out on the plazza and hallooed the best I could, and ran to Rachel's house and ran against the door. I could not leave the place after the killing was over. My conscience would not let me go.

A WIERD SCENE.

After making this statement he requested some one to pray for him. Young Mr. Hunnicut consented to pray for him and requested all persons present who were willing to pray for the prisoner to kneel down. No one knelt then, but when Mr. Hunnicut and the prisoner knelt the entire crowd joined them. Later on he again asked some one to pray for him, when Mr. It wie p soon dispersed and left his body, hanging, but it was moved before morning. The company numbered over a hundred. No one was dissuised and no fort was made at conscious guised and no effort was made at concealment.

It was composed of stan ch citizens. There was not the slightest disorder or excitement.
Public sentiment demanded the immediate execution of Sanders. The people throughout the county favored it, almost to a man. If the atrocity of crime ever justifies lynching, it was justifiable in this instance.

Justifiable in this instance.

THE PESTIVE RACHEL SKIPS.

Nothwithstanding Sanders's assertion that Rachel Kimball did not join in the killing, yet enough was shown to prove that they had talked the matter over. The longer she staid here, the stronger the feeling grew against her. Several citizens, not wishing a repetition of Sunday night's scene, advised her to skip by the light of the moon, which she did. IMPORTANT NOTICE.

THE RAILROADS.

MOVEMENTS AND RUMORS CON-CERNING SOUTHERN LINES.

Mr. Fink Will Not Sever His Connection With the East Tennessee, But Will Remove to New York - Other Interesting Railroad News From Various Points.

Some days ago it was currently reported that the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia system had been absorbed by the Norfolk and Western, and that the change of management would take place at the beginning of the new year. The report was published in The Constitution, and was generally commented on, poith and south north and south.

It seems that the report originated in the re-port, circulated in Knoxville, that Major Fink was to leave Knoxville. Various rumors grew out of this, and that the Norfolk and Western had secured the road gained general credence. Major Fink's German connections, together with the fact that he had on more than one occasion been offered the management of a prominent railroad system in Germany, induced the report that he would return to the old country, as it was known that he would soon leave Knoxville.

But the whole matter has been thoroughly sifted, and it transpires that the only fruth connected with the numer-ous rumors is that Major Fink is to leave Knoxville. He will do this on the first day of January, after which time his headquarters will be in New York. He will still hold his present position with the East Tennessee system, but removes his headquarters at the request of the president of the system. This is officially aunounced, and beyond this there will be no change.

It deverops that there is no truth whatever in the rumor that the Norfolk and Western has secured control of the system.

The removal of Major Fink from Knoxville probably means the beginning of the end of that place as the headquarters of the East Ten-nessee system. It is well known that there has long been a desire on the part of prominent directors of the system to remove it; present headquarters. Some want to transfer it to New York and others to Atlanta.

What will be the outcome cannot now be definitely fortold, but there is reason to believe that something will be done in this direction at an early date.

Atlanta and Hawkinsville. Work on the Atlanta and Hawkinsville railroad has been commenced in earnest. Colonel English, the contractor, has completed his prepara-tions and will now push the work vigorously. Yesterday the erection of stockades for the convicts who will do the grading, was begun. They will occupy as open space near the shops of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad. The grading will be commenced next Monday. Colonel English will start with about fifty hands, but in the course of a few days will increase the number to ne hundred and fifty.

Its career has been one of continued prosperity under the management of its president, Mr. Asa P. Potter, a man of rare financial ability and sagacity and of quick and unerring business judgment. Previous to Mr. Potter's taking the presidency the deposits were about $300,000, while now they are over $10,000,000. The Bank controls the sale of Government bonds in Boston, and is the only institution in that city making telegraphic transfers of money to all points. Its connections are world-wide, and the bank stands in the front rank of the great monied institutions of the country.

The Haywood Fraud.

The editor of the Century Magazine, in addition to his letter to THE CONSTITUTION, has also written a letter to the Philadelphia Times, in which he says that Haywood's articles are to be withdrawn and dropped from the war series when that series is sued in book form. Haywood's articles in the Century, it will be remembered, were enlarged by him, and afterwards printed in book form by the well known Boston firm of Honghton, Mifflin & Co. What course that firm will pursue, now that it is known that the Haywood book is a forgery from beginning to end, and therefore a fraud or the public, we do not know; but it is probable that the volume will be suppressed and the plates destroyed.

Haywood's real name is James H. Young. but he has been known as Vaughan, Horton and Haywood. He appears to be a person of considerable ability, but all his inclinations are in the direction of crime. His articles in the Century, and his book published by Honghton, Mifflin & Co., are well writ-ten. Just how much "editing" they were subjected to, it is, of course, impossible to say, but the style gives evidence of considerable fluency and the possession of fine descriptive. When it is known that every incident is a myth, it must be acknowledged that Haywood has an extraordinary imagination. His Century articles and his book will come to have some value as literary cu-

At one time, Young, or Haywood, was imprisoned at Lancaster, Pa., for forgeries. When he had served his time out, he conceived a plan for swindling a number of insurance companies. He had his life insured for various sums in several companies, and made application to the Northwestern for additional insurance. This company began an investigation, which resulted in the discovery that he was a forger. What his insurance scheme was will never be known. It was nipped in the bud.

Fortunately for all concerned, Haywood's literary career has also been nipped in the

The Growth of a Great Industry.

Step by step we have followed the progress of the coal and iron industries in Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee and reported the result in these columns.

The development of the iron trade, an industry scarcely touched in this region until after the war, has gone forward with tre-mendous strides. Elsewhere we publish interviews with General Willard Warner and his associates, which present some facts and figures of extraordinary interest. A better or more striking presentation of the natural advantages, the phenomenal growth and the future prospects of the great southern iron region has never appeared in print. The exhibit made for Birmingham, Chattanooga, Sheffield, South Pittsburg, Rising Fawn and Shelby must stand alone. It cannot be equaled by anything in this country. It is idle to talk about a prospective boom for such a region. In the language of General Warner, "It has come at last, and come to stay." When we can make iron and Bes-semer steel cheaper than they can be made in Pennsylvania, it does not require a prophet or a man of unusual sagacity to predict the outcome. The article referred to contains details which should not be lightly skimmed over. It should be read and di-

Perhaps it is Not a Surplus.

The house is undoubtedly wise in opposing the reduction of our surplus by reducing the customs duties. Assuming the president's stimate to be correct, and taking the ordiuary expenditures of the government as a basis, we shall have an apparent surplus of about half a billion dollars at the end of the next five years. This looks like a big sum, but it is not a real surplus. The slice of the national debt to be paid off within that time will cut into this surplies and leave us a real surplus of a little over $200,000,000. ow there may be extraordinary demands upon our government within the next five years. There is a growing disposition to appropriate money to fortify our seaboard cities. Some day a rumor

It has been said that one hour's bombard ment of New York, Boston, or San Francisc would cost more than the fortifications would costs The construction of these defensive works would leave about $100,000,000. A warlike prospect would, of course, compel us to build a navy. Sixty millions would be as little as we could create a navy with, and this would leave us only about $45,000, 000. Preparations for war would require gun foundries, and all that sort of thing. and internal improvements would absorb

There is nothing improbable in any of these suppositions. They show that our apparent surplus is not such a big thing after all. In view of all these contingencies it would be a short-sighted policy to cut down our revenues at present. Fortunately there is no danger that such a step will be taken.

Discriminating Rates. According to all accounts, the rates which the railroads have fixed against Atlanta are beginning to develop, in the most unexpected way, a certain quality of two-edgedness, so to speak. Like all other forms of injustice, they hurt in more than one direction. Thus we observe that the merchants and business men of New Orleans are complaining because the rates for that city to Atlanta are abnormally high. There has been some correspondence on the subject between a prominent firm in New Orleans and the manager of the Louisville and Nashville railroad. The firm, in its letter, makes a comparison of rates which shows that the discrimination, which is probably intended to hurt Atlanta alone, is hurting New Orleans and other cities which sell in this

The reply of the manager of the Louisville and Nashville to the letter of the New Orleans firm shows that he is somewhat dazed by the facts as set forth. He says that the rates 'certainly seem to be out of line," and he promises to investigate the matter and see that justice is done. His letter is a very friendly and courteous one, and it is to be hoped he will take the pains to investigate this matter thoroughly, in order that justice may be not only done to Atlanta, but to other communities that have business deal-

The Literary "Business."

Some time ago the New York Mirror, a dramatic and sporting paper, concluded that it wanted something in the shape of literature for its Christmas issue. With this idea the editor of the Mirror wrote or applied to M. B. Curtis, the actor, whom our readers will remember as "Sam'l of Posen," for a Christmas story. Why Curtis should have been applied to for matter of this kind is a mystery that will probably never be ex-

Nevertheless, he was applied to, and, at the roper time, sent the editor a story, which duly appeared with Mr. Curtis's distinguisished name signed in fac simile at the bottom. The new York Sun read this story over and found it good. The Sun found also that it was identical with a story which Bret Harte had written for its columns some time

The explanation that Curtis makes is the he was imposed upon by a Colonel Milliken, whom he hired to furnish him with a story to fill the order from the Mirror. Thus Curtis, the editor and the public were imposed upon. Meanwhile we have seen no explanation of the imposition that led Curtis to sign his name to a story which he didn't write. This is a crime in no wise different from that committed by Colonel Milliker when he stole Bret Harte's story.

SOMEBODY has mentioned Beaver, of Pennsylvania, as the republican candidate for president. No doubt he would make as good a race as any of them. The question now is, not which can be elected, but which can be defeated with the best grace.

In Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, a pro hibition society has begun a flank movement against the saloons which bids fair to prove suc essful. It has started out to establish restaurants in the vicinity of the large manufacturing establishments of Pittsburg. THE sudden resignation of Lord Randolph Churchill has aroused the Chicago editors from their accustomed Christmas lethargy. THE Boston Transcript says that the Hon G. Frisbie Hoar doesn't represent the north. Not all the north, of course! but didn't he receive the hearty support of that liberal organ, the Springfield Republican?

CINCINNATI is now engaged in fretting about what she lost by the strikes during the year. The conservative architects say building was cut off at least forty per cent. The direct losses were those where plans already made were withdrawn; where plans in course of preparation were ordered stopped, and where improvements were contemplated but were postponed. In round figures, the falling off in building amounted to $2,000,000, on account of the strikes. Three or four thousand men were out of employment for about six weeks. The loss in wages, which fell directly on the mechanics, was about $250,000. Cincinnati ha decided that "strikes don't pay."

THAT brilliant individual, the practical oker, has been getting in his work lately. In a Pennsylvania town, a few evenings ago party of young men thought it would be great fun to scare an elderly person whom they knew to be afraid of adventurous characters. Dressing themselves as cowboys and brandishing knives and tomahawks, they rushed in upon ing disposition to appropriate money to fort-ify our seaboard cities. his recovery is not looked for. In Chicago, on Thanksgiving evening, a party of young men were eating turkey, when one of them choked. His companions thought it would be very humorous to send for a horse doctor, and while they were endeavoring to explain to him funny features of their joke, and at the same time were waiting for the arrival of a genuine physician, their comrade strangled to death.

THE St. Paul Globe publishes a special holiday edition, in which it prints burlesque pictures of St. Paul citizens as they will appear in 1919. The St. Paul ice palace will stand all sum before that town produces a citizen equal in good looks to either of the distinguished Georgians named.

Mr. Pulitzer's Alleged New Paper. Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, of the New York World, in a personal letter to one of the editors of THE CONSTITUTION, written on another matter, begs that the absurd report that he was thinking of starting a paper in Atlanta, be corrected. He prostarting a paper in Atlanta, be corrected. He pro-nounces it a pure fabrication, and says that under no consideration whatever would be think of start-ing a paper anywhere. A similar report has been started in regard to Kansas City, and he has been flooded with letters from journalists all over the country, asking for employment on either his new Atlanta or Kansas City paper. Mr. Pulitzer has in the World the most largely circulated American newspaper, and even those men who run smaller newspapers understand that very few men are big enough to handle 'two papers, both daily." It is an open secret that Mr. Pulitzer loves and admires THE CONSTITUTION, as he does no other paper in the world except the "World," and that he frequently consults its columns for wise and patriotic suggestions. He has frequently alluded to The Constitution as "The World of the South," and we make no secret of the fact that we consider the "World" the "Constitution of the North," Mr. Pulitzer will not start a paper in Atlanta, and at present we have no intention of starting a paper in OPINIONS FROM THE SOUTH. How Mr. Grady's Speech was Received in the South.

The New York Sun of Monday publishes reoorts from several prominent southern cities as t now Mr. Grady's speech was received. Among then are the following:

THE SYRECH PLEASED LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, December 26.—The speech of Mr.

Henry W. Grady at the dinner of the New England society in New York meets a very warm indoses ment in Lonisiana. A full report of the speech has not yet been received, but a very full synopsi has been published here, and the sentiments are in accord with those of the people, especially in the city of New Orleans. His illustration of the high type of the American citizen in the person of Abraham Lincoln is less admired than his tribute to the faithfulness of the negro, and his description of faithfulness of the negro, and his description the close relations that have always existed by employer. No less is Mr. Grady's view of the new tween the negro and his late master and presen southern views as Mr. Grady should have been in vited to address the New England society is a mat-ter for much gratification here, and this is in-creased by the splendid reception accorded to him and his masterly presentation of the sentiments and aspirations of the new south

VIRGINIA LIKED THE SPEECH.

RICHMOND, December 26.-Mr. Grady's speech is cordially approved here. The State nows-paper makes it the subject of a leading editorial, in which it says that it is a strange fact that the northern man of today knows less of his southern brother than his southern brother knows of him. It says the south will be bettered by having more such Virginians have long since ceased to be sensitive on the abolition question. One comment most gen-erally made here on Mr. Grady's speech is surprise and gratification that a southern man should he been accorded such a conspicuous and honora place by New Englanders, and that the north press should give such space to his utterances. There is probably less anti-northern feeling in Virginia than in any of the southern states, Maryl excepted. This may be accounted for by the c proximity of the state to the northern line. So far as Grady's speech is concerned, the Sun correspondent has failed to find a single citizen who has ented from any sentiment therein.

TENNESSEE SAYS DITTO TO MR. GRADY. NASHVILLE, December 26.—Mr. Grady's speech is well received in this city, and the sentiments expressed therein are heartily indorsed. Tennesseeans are glad the opportunity was afforded outh to appear before such an organization as the New England society and express the feeling of the people of this section toward those in the other parts of the union. They are pleased to know that the ideas that prevail here were well presented, and that they made such a favorable impression. The newspapers commend the able effort of the Georgia journalist, and emphasize his remarks in strong editorial articles.

WHO IS GRADY, ANYHOW? CHARLESTON, S. C., December 26.—Nobody here has heard of Grady's speech. The city newspapers did not publish it. The Charleston people have no love for The Atlanta Constitution or expedy connected with its most the earthwards. anybody connected with it since the earthquake.

A Batch of Press Opinions THE NORTH RESPONDS HEARTILY.

From the Boston Journal, rep.,;—
Tens of thousands of northern men—republicans, in fact—have read Mr. Grady's eloquent sen-tences with admiration and thankfulness. To that south which he represents, to that Americanism with which his speech is pregnant, to those sentiments of loyalty and equal rights which he has uttered and to that fervid patriotism which his sentences breathe, the hand and the heart of the north goes out without stint or reservation. Let this Christmas season be devoted to cherishing the smilments and the aspirations of the patriotic and loval southerner.

NEW YORK'S CHRISTMAS GIFT.

New England's Christmas gift to the empire ate of the south is a national reputation for Heury W. Grady, of Atlanta.

REALLY, PERHAPS IT DID. Mr. Jim Randall in Augusta Chroniele.

Perhaps the champagne had something to do with the enthusiasm, although Mr. Grady himself s a cold water man, and comes from an alleged temperance town.

A WORD FROM RENTUCKY.

From the Courier-Journal.

The characterization of Abraham Lincoln; the The characterization of Abraham Lincoln; the picture of the returning confederate soldier, and the tribute to the memory of those who fell in the struggle, rise into the higher realms of genuine oratory. The south was fortunate in being for the first time in its experience represented at this oxclusive board by a gentleman who, to the rare gift of eloquence, united so much good sense and good taste, and proved so entirely equal to the obvasion. The reception of Mr. Grady was cordial in the extreme, and all the papers say that so good a speech has not been made in New York for many a day.

HERE'S WHAT THE CHRONICLE SAYS.

From the Augusta Chronicle. General Sherman and the New England hilosophers and financiers were led captive by a oung David who came without a sling, but used he more potent soreery of a brilliant intellect and nchanting eloquence."

HERE'S WHAT THE CHRONICLE SAYS.

THINKS AN OLD EXPERIMENT IS REPEATED. From the New York World, Henry W. Grady, of THE ATLANTA CONSTI-TUTION, has signally repeated the experience of Byron, and awaked one morning to find himself famous.

From the Montgomery Advertiser. He who on last Wendesday morning was plain Henry Grady, of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, addicted to baseball and peragraphs, was on Thurs-day, the next day, Mr. H. W. Grady, the distin-guished young southerner who had made the finest speech New York has heard in two generations. IT WILL BIND THE SECTIONS CLOSER.

From the Columbus Enquirer. From the Columbus Enquirer.

Last week a southern editor, Mr. Henry Grady, was an invited guest and speaker at the New Fingland club banquet in New York city. He was the first southerner who had ever spoken at their board. His speech was a manity defense of overything southern, and an appeal for a never ending brotherhood between the sections hereafter. It was cherred to the echo by his northern and ence, commended without stint by the northern press, and it as waked up an amen in every hidden nook be has waked up an amen in ever indicate the two oceans that bound our continent of either shore. The year 1887 will usher in the only true union that ever existed between the northand the south. May this union continue always and may the light of the peace that grows out of it "Shine supreme and bright."

SACHUSETTS AND SOUTH CAROLINA WILL VOT

From the New York Star. For the first time within more than a qua ter of a century South Carolina and Massachu not only feel one way, but will vote one way; a next to the beneficent influence of a broad-pri pled and enlightened democratic administrat this result is chiefly due to the courage and libe ism of the Gradys of the north as well as of south.

WHAT A ROMAN EDITOR THINKS.

From the Rome Bulletin. The speech delivered by Mr. Henry W Grady at the forefathers' dinner in New York on the 22d instant has won the praise of the press on both sides of Mason and Dixon's line. He has rep resented the south as no man, save Ben Hill, has represented her since the war. Verily the mantle of Ben Hill's eloquence seems to have fallen upon Grady, and the people and press of Georgia, whother allied or opposed in polities, have hastened to do him honor.

PICKETT'S CHARGE.

The Third Day's Fight at Gettysburg-A Graphic Story. In the January number of the Century are articles on the third day's fight at Gettysburg by General H. J. Hunt and E. P. Alexander, From the latter's account of Pickett's charge we quote as follows: "At exactly 1 o'clock by my watch the wo signal guns were heard in quick su In another minute every gun was at work. The enemy was not slow in coming back at us, and the grand roar of nearly the whole artillery of both armies burst in on the silence almost as suddenly as the full notes of an organ could fill a church.

"The artillery of Ewell's corps, however, took only a small part, I believe, in this, as they were too far away around the town. Some of them might have done good service from posi-tions between Hill and Ewell, entions between Hill and Ewell, en filading the batteries fighting us. The oppor tunity to do that was the single advantage, having the exterior line to compensate for all its disadvantages. But our line was so far extended bat all of it was not well studied, and the of each corps had no opportunity to examine each other's ground for chances of co-operative work.
"The enemy's position seemed to have broken out with guns everywhere, and from Round Top to Cemetery Hill was blazing like a volcano. Th air seemed full of missiles from every direction. The severity of the fire may be illustrated by the asualties in my own battalion under Major Huger.

"Before the cannonade opened I had made up my mind to give Pickett the order to advance within fifteen or twenty minutes after it began. But when I looked at the full development of the enemy's batteries, and knew that his infantry was generally protected from our fire by stone walls and swells of the ground, I could not bring myself to give the word. It seemed madness to launch in fantry into that fire, with nearly three-quarters of a mile to go in the midday July sun. I let the fif-teen minutes pass, and twenty, and twenty-five, hoping vainly for something to turn up. Then I wrote to Pickett: 'If you are coming at all you must come at once, for I cannot give you proper support; but the enemy's fire has not slacked at all; at least eighteen guns are still firing from the cemetery itself.' Five minutes after sending that message, the enemy's fire suddenly began to slacken, and the guns in the cemetery limbered up and vacated the position.

"We confederates often did such things as that to save our ammunition for use against infantry, but I had never before seen the federals withdraw their guns simply to save them up for the infantry fight. So I said, 'If he does not run fresh batteries in there in five minutes this is our fight.' I looked anxiously with my glass and the five minute passed without a sign of life on the deserted posi fion still swept by our fire and littered with dead men and horses and fragments of disabled car-riages. Then I wrote Pickett urgently: 'For God's sake, come quick. The eighteen guns are gone; come quick, or my ammunition won't let me support you properly.'

I afterwards heard from others what took place I afterwards heard from others what took place with my first note to Pickett.

"Pickett took it to Longstreet, Longstreet read it, and said nothing. Pickett said: 'General, shall advance' Longstreet, kno ring it had to be, but unwilling to give the word, turned his face away. Pickett saluted and said: 'I am going to move forward, sir,' galloped off to his division and immediately put it in motion.

stely put it in motion.

"Longstreet, leaving his staff, came out alone to where I was. It was then about 1:40 p. m. I explained the situation, feeling then more hopeful, but afraid our artillery ammunition might not hold out for all we would want. Longstreet said: 'Stop Pickett immediately and replenish your ammunition.' I explained that it would take too there and the green would recover from the effect. leng, and the enemy would recover from the effect our first fire was then having, and we had, morestop it now but that General Lee ordered it, and expects it to go on. I don't see how it can succeed.'
"I listened, but did not dare offer a word. The battle was lost if we stopped. Ammunition was far too low to try anything else, for we had been fighting three days. There was a chance, and it was not my part to interfere. While Longstreetwas still speaking. Pickett's division sweet out of the speaking, Pickett's division swept out of the and shining bayonets, as grand a sight as ever a man looked on. Joining it on the left, Pettigrew stretched farther than I could see. General Dick Garnett, just out of the sick ambulance, and buttoned up in an old blue overcoat, riding at the head of his brigade, passed us and saluted Long-street. Garnett was a warm personal friend, and we had not met before for months. We had served on the plains together before the war. I rode with him a short distance, and then we wished each other luck and a good-bye which was our last. "Then I rode down the line of guns, selecting such as had enough ammunition to follow Pickett's advance, and starting them after him as fast as pos-sible. I got, I think, fifteen or eighteen in all in a little while, and went with them. Meanwhile, the infantry had no sooner debouched on the plain than all the enemy's line, which had been nearly silent, broke out again with all its batteries. The eighteen guns were back in the cemetery, and a storm of shell began bursting over and among our infantry. All of our guns, silent as the infantry passed between them, reopened when the lines had got a couple of hundred yards away, but the encry's grillery let us alone and fired only at the inmy's artillery let us alone and fired only at the infantry. No one could have looked at that advance without feeling proud of it.

"But as our supporting guns advanced, we passed many poor mangled victims left in its trampled wake. A terrific infantry fire was now opened upon Pickett, and a considerable force of the enemy moved out to attack the right flank of his line. my moved out to attack the right flank of his line. We halted, unlimbered, and opened fire upon it. Pickett's men never halted, but opened fire at close range, swarmed over the fences and among the enemy's guns, were swallowed up in smoke—and that was the last of them. The conflict hardly seemed to last five minutes before they were melted away, and only disorganized stragglers were coming back pursued by a moderate fire. Justithen Wilzox's brigade passed by us, moving to Pickett's support. There was no longer anything to support, and with the keenest pity at the useless waste of life I saw them advance. The men as they passed us locked bewildered, as if they wondered what they were expected to do, or why they were there. They were soon, however, halted and moved back."

"I've thought of that a thousand times," replied old man Gatewood, known through the neighborhood as Lazy Sam; "I know that I have an easier time than my wife, but I'm bringing the thing down mighty nigh equal now. I don't believe in allowing a woman to mighty nigh kill herself at llowing a woman to mighty nigh kill herself a work, let me tell you, and for some time I have been shaping my points so that she won't have such a hard time." "Equalizing it, ch?"

"That's exactly what I'm doin', gentlemen. Last year my po' wife had to chop all the wood, and fetch all the water."
"And you have relieved her of that, eh?"
"Wall, partly; she only has to whop the wood row. My boy has got to be hig enough to tote the water. I tell you what's a fact, a man ought to think o these things."

"Well, when will he probably be here?" "Really, sir, I cannot tell you. The minister sailed for England yesterday and did not indicate without lifting his eyes from his book.

Labouchere was promoted from the secretary ship of the legation in Washington to a similar position with the English legation at Vienna. There he was known as the liveliest Briton at the court, and many are the tales that are told of his reckless escapades. Once on his way to London on leave of absence he stopped at Mauaco and lost his last penny at roulette. He did not blow his brains out, as the victim of that famous establishmen so often does, but retired to his elega entertained like a lord until he could get a remittance from some friends in England. As soon as it came he threw it on the gaming table, doubled five or six times, paid his bills and set out for

They say he is aged only in years, and that he is still as ready for a wager or a frolic as he was twenty years ago, when he was a favorite guest o Washington drawing rooms and the terror of Washington fare banks.

Labouchere is a singular instance of a man who has attained what is called success without ever naving had any fixed principle except his aggres, sive red republicanism and his uncompromising hatred of the English aristoracy. He is one of those rarely gifted, purposeless, dashing fellows, like Sargent Smith Prentiss and Dick Taylor, who achieve sparkling reputations while they live, and are forgotten as soon as they are dead.

Mr. Pulitzer has given Mr. John Cockerill managing editor of the World, six months' vacation and a trip to Europe for the benefit of his tailing health. This is a handsome compliment, and I hope it will not have a sequel similar to that of a similar compliment which was tendered Mr. Cockerill about ten years ago. He was the managing editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and McLean, fresh from Harvard, had just taken his father's interest in the Enquirer, and had become much attached to Cockerill. McLear insisted that Cockerill should take a rest, gave him a leave and sent him to Europe, just as Pulitzer has done. The young proprietor assumed the editorial chair as a substitute. His friends soon began to flatter him with assurances that the paper was never before so well edited. McLean was seized with an ambition to be a thunderer, and while Cockerill was build ing up his broken health at the European spas, he eceived a notice that his services would not be re quired longer on the Enquirer. Of course, Cockerill On his return a dozen good places were at his command, and his steady march to the front rank o American editors was not interrupted. He is independent now in fortune as well as in everything except health His friends hope that ne will come back refreshed and strengthened and ready for many more years of such splendid work as he has done on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

Smythe and C. S. Gadsden, and was unanimously adopted:

The undersigned, a special committee appointed to prepare such an acknowledgement as would express to the generous contributors to the relief fund for the needy sufferers by the earthquake, the appreciation felt by this community at the number and magnitude of these offerings, respectfully submit the following:

At the close of this year, memorable by our sudden and terrible affliction from the mysterious visitation of earthquake, the corporation of the city of Charleston in grateful memory of the blessed bounty that came from all parts of this land, and even beyond the seas, for the needy sufferers in this stricken city, send to each and all of those generous givers to this city the heartfelt gratitude and glad greetings in the new hopes of the new year. Families in more than two thousand homes have been restored; a multitude of poor fed and sheltered. The orphan, sick, aged and needy, in their rebuilt hospital and places of refuge will always cherish this gractious and universal giving, and in the heart of this city the memory of it shall be precious as charity, the fruit of which is on earth, and its growth in heaven. To all our brothers, far and near, who have been touched by our woe, our heartfelt wish is that even unto us, in this human springtime of peace and good will, so unto them may come, in God's good providence, the charities, that soothe 's good providence, the charities that soothe

BRADY'S BILL.

DEALERS IN FERTILIZERS DO NOT WISH IT TO PASS.

Text of the Bill-What Mr. Robert Ober, President of the Baltimore Pertilizer Exchange, Says-Guano for Cash-What the Dealers Will Do-Other Legislative News.

Samter county is about to be made famous through the work of one of her representatives in the general assembly. This representative, Mr. Brady, introduced a bill in the house to provide for pleading and proving failure of consideration of any promisors note or other instrument in writing, given for commercial fertilizers, guanos or manures. It was read the first time and then laid over until the summer session. Three hundred copies were ordered printed for the use of the house. One of these copies fell into the hands of a guano dealer, and was sent by him to Mr. Robert Ober, president of the Baltimore Fertilizer exchange.

of the Baltimore Fertilizer exchange.

THE BILL.

The bill is as follows:

A bill to be entitled an act to provide for pleading and proving a failure of consideration of any promissory note or other instrument in writing, given for commercial fertilizers, guancs or manures, and to prescribe a penalty for failing to state the consideration in the face of any negotiable promissory note or any other negotiable instrument given for the same.

Section I. Be it enacted by the general assembly of Georgia, That any purchaser of commercial fertilizers, guanos or manures who shall give a promisory note or any other instrument in writing for the same may plead and prove, when said in any court of this state, a failure of consideration of said instrument, when said fertilizers, guanos or manures have proven worthless or of ho practical value.

Sec. 2. Be it further enserted, etc.. That no waiver value.

1 Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, etc., That no waiver of warrants or any other waiver, promise, agreement, condition or undertaking expressed in any promisery note or other instrument in writing given for commercial fertilizers, guanos or manures shall defeat the right of the maker thereof toplead and prove a failure of the consideration of the same.

and prove a failure of the consideration of the same.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, etc., That no transfer of any promissory note or other instrument in writing given for commercial fertilizers, guanos or manures to any person claiming to be an innocent purchaser without, or holding the same under any other contract or agreement, shall defeat the right of the maker thereof to plead and prove a failure of the consideration of the same.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, etc., That any agent for or dealer in commercial fertilizers, guanos or manures, or any other person who shall sell the same, and who shall fail, refuse or neglect to state in face of said promissory note or instrument for the same, and shall fail, refuse or neglect to state in face of said promissory note or instrument in writing that the same is given for commercial fertilizers, guanos or manures, shall be guilty of anisdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished as prescribed in section 4310 of the code of 1882.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, etc., That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act be, and the same are hereby repealed.

They insist that the fertilizers sold by them are not worthless, but that should a purchaser swear to the contrary, there would be little or no means of establishing their worth.

WHATMR. OBER SAYS.

Mr. Ober says that if the bill becomes a law, all dealers in guano will probably be driven out of the state. He says, further, that if they should not be driven out, they will refuse to sell to anybody except for cash.

It is well known that, as a rule, farmers buy fertilizers on credit. The majority of them are unable to do otherwise. If they are compelled to pay cash, they either cannot buy or will be forced to reduce the quantity used. In either event, they will suffer serious inconvenience.

Mr. Ober says that the inspections made by the agricultural department afford ample protection against worthless fertilizers. As long as the inspections are continued, dealers will not dare sell fertilizers that are worthless.

ANOTHEL COMPLICATION It is likely that another complication will result from Mr. Brady's bill. It is intimated that dealers in guano will not wait to see whether or dealers in guano will not wait to see whether or not the general assembly will pass it, but they will take no risks and will refuse to sell, next spring, except for cash. If the dealers should pursue this course, there will be a wonderful revolution in the methods of Georgia tarmers.

In the meantime, "Brady, of Sumter," is a much discussed man, and his bill is causing a sensation all over the country among manufacturers and dealers in guano. In Baltimore, especially, "Brady" and "Sumter" are attracting great attention, and there is little doubt but that a committee of manufacturers from that city will "sit up" with the general assembly next summer.

Fareon is now under guard at police headquarters. For a long time Farson was engaged in the commissary department at the Dade coal mine convict camps. He is a man of business tact, and performed his duties in a most satisfactory manner, but for some cause could not get along with Dr. Davis, the resident physician at the camps. The details of the shooting were printed in the telegraph column of The Constitution the next day.

After the shooting Farson left the coal mines and came to Atlanta. Almost before he reached the city, however, the story of his offense was in the hands of the police department, and his description was on file at police headquarters. The detectives began watching for the fugitive, and on Monday came upon a man who answered the description given and arrested him. The party arrested denied most strenuously any knowledge of the shooting, and said that he was a South Carolinian. At police headquarters he succeeded in convincing the detectives that he was not Farson, and secured his release. The resemblance between the men, however, is most striking, and after the detectives had released the South Carolinian they were not certain that they had done exactly right. On yesterlay, Farson's appearance and surrender convinced them that they had first taken the wring man. Of course there are two sides to the shooting for which Farson surrenders himself. He declines to talk to reporters, but to officers has related a story. He is a married man, and says that Dr. Davis had been making nukind remarks about his wife. He went to the doctor and asked him to desist, but without success. Finally, last week, he was discharged, as he claims, through Dr. Davis. On the day after his discharge—Tuesday—he armed himself with a double-barrel shotgun, and, entering the doctor's office, said:

"You have given me enough trouble, and I'm going to kill you."

He leveled the gun, and as he pulled the trigger the doctor knocked it up. Both barrols just grazed the side of his suce, making an ugly but not dangerous wound.

Farson is a neatly dressed, passable looking man, of about thirty years of age. He is about two hundred ato two hundred and in pounds. He has sandy hair and mustache and a light complexion.

THE NEW LAWS.

The Governer Completes the Signing of General Assembly Bills.

General Assembly Bills.

Yesterday morning Governor Gordon completed the signing of all the bills passed by the general assembly during the session which closed on the 22d inst. The total number was one hundred and twenty-five. In addition, there were seven joint resolutions. He found no bill which he thought proper not to sign.

The work entailed by reading the bills was tedious and exacting. The enrolling and engrossing clerks would sametimes make mistakes, and in order to correct them the bills prepared for the governor's signature would have to be carefully compared with the originals. Not only this, but every line was closely scrutinized in order to detect violations of the constitution. Of course, the governor could not sign as unconstitutional bill. It is to the credit of the members of the general assembly that he violations of the constitution were discovered. When the governor attached his signature to the last bill, the state had added to its already long list one hundred and twenty-dive new laws. The most important of these new laws are those string the general appropriations and the taxes. More than one-fifth relate to railroads.

When the general assembly reconvenes, it will find, pending for action, three hundred and saventy-five bills, nearly every one of which is of a local facture.

Two Women Fight in the Patrol Wagon

A Burglar in a Residence.

Hattie Matthews and Victoria Rutherford, two negro women living near the Atlanta Gas company's works, indulged in a fight yesterday morning, which attracted the attention of everybody in that section of the city. The women fought all over the block, and after scratching and tearing one another up generally separated, and arming themselves with sticks returned to the battle field again. The noise made by the women attracted among others officers, who put a stop to the fight. The women refused to accompany the officers to police headquarters, and the patrol wagon was sent for. After the women had been placed in the wagon they renewed their fight, and, as the wagon tolled along the streets to police headquarters, fought without interference until they got tired enough to quit.

The memorial window in rear of the altar was also beautifully decorated. The taste that suggested and the hands that executed the designs were both artistic. Nothing half as beautiful as these decorations were ever before seen in Atlanta. The service was begun with the carol, "Par O'er the Eastern Hills," followed by the creed and collects. Rev. THE WEEK OF PRAYER.

Topics For Each Day Suggested by the United States Evangelical Alliance. Next week will be a week of prayer in all civilized countries of the world. The United States Evangelical Alliance has announced a programme. The meetings during the week, beginning January the 3rd, will be held daily in the First Methodist church at 3:30 p. m., each service being limited to one hour. The chairman of the meetings will be allowed only fifteen minutes in which to read the Scriptures and open the service. Each appointed speaker will be permitted to consume only ten minutes, and each volunteer speaker five minutes. The committee desires that each chairman should observe strictly these allotments of time, so as not to prolong the service beyond the hour. The general sentiment of the committee is that there ought to be general prayers—brief and appropriate to the subject of the hour.

The Rev. N. Keff Smith has been appointed to take charge of the music, and he urges the people to bring with them to each meeting their "Gospel Hymns." and requests them to join in the singing. The following is the order for chairmen and appointed speaker of each day:

Monday—Chairman, the Rev. W. W. Wadsworth; speaker, the Rev. E. H. Barrett, D. D.

Tuesday—Chairman, the Rev. J. S. Lamar; speaker, the Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, D. D.

Wednesday—Chairman, the Rev. J. S. Lamar; speaker, the Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, D. D.

Saturday—Chairman, the Rev. T. P. Cleveiand; speaker, the Rev. H. C. Hornady, D. D.; speaker, the Rev. G. B. Strickler, D. D.

If any of the above named persons finds that he ennot be present he is authorized to select some one to take his place.

The order of services and the themes for each day are as follows;

Praise—Monday—For spiritual blessings; for the long-suffering grace of God; for temporal blessings, both public and private.

Humillation—Tuesday—For personal, family and national sins.

Prayer for the church—Wednesday—That the people of God may know thair high calling and eivilized countries of the world. The United States

The dence was orderly until the fumes of liquor began to influence the brains of the young men who were present. There were two factions at the dance who bore each othera feud—the Gilberts and the Halls. The friends of both parties tried to keep the trouble that was browing under control, but it was no use. Finally revolvers were drawn and the shooting began. George Gilbert fell at the first round, riddled with builets. Elijah Gilbert and John Montgomery received mortal wounds, and John Land was badly cut with a razor. Men, women and children fied from the house in terror. The lights were put out, and when the firing was over the battlefield was investigated, and the dead and wounded were attended to. It was found that the room was riddled with bullets, at least fifty having been fired during the melee. Only one of the shooters was captured, Mike Donahue, who was taken before a justice of the peace. During the trial, Donahue jumped through the window and escaped. Phil Breitenbucher, the winercom man, corner Marietta and Broad streets, was fined ten dollars and seventy-five cents by Judge Anderson during the session of police court yesterday morning. Mr. Breitenbucher's place is nicely fitted up and among other things which made it attractive during the days of saloons were the painted windows and the thick, heavy swinging screens. When the saloon was converted into a wincroom no changes were made in the interior of the place. Day before yesterday Patrolmen Cochran and Mercer observed the thick screens, and recollecting the ordinances against them recently adopted, made a case against Mr. Breitenbucher. The case was the first one made under the ordinance and attracted considerable attention.

HE WAS FINED PHIRTY DOLLARS.

John Hightower, the negro who was arrested day before yesterday charged with being proprietor of a traveling blind tiger, was arraigned in police court. The evidence against Hightower was conclusive and Judge Anderson imposed a fine of thirty dollars and costs. When Hightower was fined a few days ago he was flush and paid the fifty dollars with a broad grin. He was unable to pay the thirty dollars yesterday and was sent to the rock pile to knock it out at fifty cents a day.

KEEPING A DISORDERLY HOUSE.

D. Y. Gifford, who manipulates a winercom on Frazier street, near the extreme southern end, was arrested yesterday by Captain Crim and Patrolmen Phillips and Stierman. Cifford is charged with keeping a disorderly house. The arresting officers assert that Gifford permits disorderly crowds to gather at his place, and that their conduct has become so offensive to the residents of that section of the city that several complaints have been lodged at police headquarters recently.

DEINKING IN A PUBLIC PLACE.

DRINKING IN A PUBLIC PLACE. A new feature in the enforcement of the prohibition law was introduced at police headquarters yesterday in the shape of a case against G. F. Backus, better known as Blass Backus. Backus is charged with drinking in a public place. The arresting officer, Pataoliman Abbott, asserts that Backus took a drink of liquor from a bottle in an alley, in the rear of Magnus' drug store, just off Pryor street, in broad daylight, and in plain view of everyone who passed by.

NEW YORK STOCKS. stocks as Reported at the New York Stock

NEW YORK, December 28.—The stock market displayed more activity today, notwithstanding the fact that the interruption of telegraphic communication prevented business which would have been done for foreign account. Prices occupied a higher range, being generally firm throughout the entire day, the lowest figures being recorded at the opening; the highest in the last few minutes. The advance was started by covering of shorts upon the absence of the expected London selling movement, which was accelerated later by news of an adjustment of the difficulties between the Reading company and its employes, which naturally brought the coal stocks into prominence, and the three leading stocks under that head turnish over one-half of the entire business done, being remarkably strong and active throughout the entire after-noon. St. Paul was aided by the denial from Chi-cago that there would be any reduction in the dividend, and Union Pacific was strengthed by the statement contrary to late reports from London in egard to the collateral trust bonds. The opening this morning was generally steady, first prices showing insignificant changes only from last even-ing's final figures. The market was dull, although days at this time. Prices were decidedly strong, and advances ranging up to over 1 per cent. were established in the first hour. Later the market became dull and featureless, and the movement in prices ceased, but after 12 o'clock the coal stocks became prominent, and on somewhat better busi-ness prices again advanced. The last hour saw a ness prices again advanced. The last hour saw a renewal of the activity and strength of the early morning, and the market closed quiet but strong at the best prices of the day. The total day's business was 213,000 shares. The entire active list is higher this evening, the principal advances being in Reading, Richmond and West Point, Cameron Coa, Jersey Central. Colorado Coal, Lake Shore, Western Union, Lackawanna, St. Paul and Union Pacific.

POSTOFFICE INSPECTORS COMMISSIONED. The following postoffice inspectors have been commissioned for the year 1887. Henry Booth, W. C. Baird, M. V. Moore, W. W. Simpson, J. D. Williamson, James H. Griffin, Thomas B. Stubbs and W. C. Boykin.

Won the Doll,—The large and beautiful doll, which was displayed in the window of M. Kutz & Co., on Whitehall street during the holidays, was won by Miss Addic Cook, the daughter of Major Cook. The doll was a handsome one, worth about thirty dollars, and was indeed a delightful surprise to the young lady winning it.

PRESENTS TO THE GOVERNOR .- Governor and Mrs. Gordon have been the recipients of many handsome presents, during the holidays, from friends in all parts of the country. THE FARMERS' CONGRESS.—Hon. J. T. Henderson, commissioner of agriculture, has received replies from the delegates appointed to attend the farmers' congress in Washington, which indicates that nearly all of them will go. The congress meets on the 15th on January. The delegates from Georgia will meet in Atlanta on the 9th of that month and proceed to Washington together. Commissioner Henderson regards his appointments as exceptionally good ones.

THEIR CHILD DIED.—The infant child of Captain Moon died yesterday afternoon at his home, on Larkin street. Captain Moon was much better during the day, and was out for a short time. Mrs. Moon, however did not improve any during the day, and was about as ill last night as she has been. The illness in the family began only last week, and has been very severe. Mrs. Moon's condition is no considered critical. The remains of the child will be taken to Powder Springs today for will be taken to Powder Springs today for

The proceeds from this ball tonight will be devoted to the purchase of the dress uniform for the company. niform for the company.

IRON ORE DISCOVERED.—Mr. W. S. Jackson was in the city yesterday with some specimens of iron ore discovered on the lands of his son, Mr. G. Dallas Jackson, about three-quarters of a mile from the depot at West Point. The ladds are across the line in Chambers county, Alabama. One of the specimens is a piece of magnetic iron ore which was examined by Professor Eugene Smith, of the university of Alabama. He declared it to be very valuable if found, in quantities, sufficient to authorize its being worked. Another specimen is of brown iron ore, with pyrites. It is not known yet how much of the ore is in the bed, as the place has not been worked.

The favorite "comedy sunbeam" will appear on our stage, for two nights and one matinee, next Friday and Saturday. Her many friends will be glad to welcome her to the Gate city, where she left such a pleasant memory. Since she was here last year, she has continued her successful career, and she is now ranked among the highest sourcettes of this country. The New York Herald of last August 4th, said of her:

Miss Myra Goodwin danced her way into public favor at the Fourteenth-street theater last night. She is froung and has a fresh face and manner, and appeared in a three act comedy drama by E. E. Kidder. The comedy was good.

The play served to introduce some clever character dancing by Miss Goodwin. She also sang very nicely, and has a pretty, quaint fashion of puckering up her mouth.

The comedy in the piece was bright and crisp. The repartee was sharp and quick.

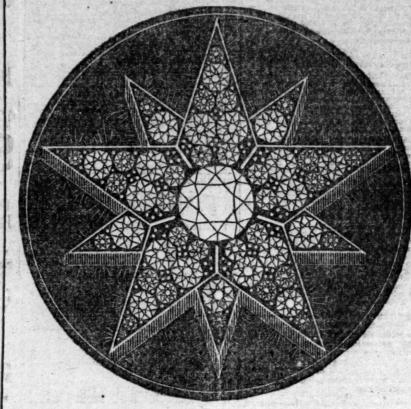

Let Miss Goodwin keep to her dancing, singing and ingenue manner, and her success is assured.

Sunday School Convention at Trinity Church Today.

The Fulton County Sunday School association will hold their convention at Trinity church this morning at 10 o'clock. Amongst the speakers are Rev. W. P. Thirkield, Dr. Barnett, Rev. Dr. Eddy, Captain John Milledge and others. Little Julia Manning and other little from the Third Presbyterian Sunday school will sing some of their sweet songs. The public is invited.

Life in the Paris Sewers,

Life in the Paris Sewers, is possible, for a short time, to the robust, but the majority of refined persons would prefer immediate death to existence in their recking atmosphere. How much more revolting to be in one's self a living sewer. But this is actually the case with those in whom the inactivity of the liver drives the refuse matter of the body to escape through the lungs, breath, the pores, kidneys and bladder. It is astonishing that life remains in such a dwelling. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" restores normal purity to the system and renews the whole being.

The Bonds to Bear 4 1-2 Per Cent.

The general council convened in called ses sion yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and au-thorized the issuing of a new series of city bonds amounting to $25,000.

The bonds will be used to redeem a bonded

The call for the meeting was issued by Mayor Hillyer, and at the appointed hour every mem-ber, except Mr. Stockdell, of the board of alder-men; Mr. Mitchell, of the second ward; Mr. Beatie, of the third ward, and Mr. Green, of the fourth ward, were present. Mayor Hillyer called the body to order by saying:

called the body to order by saying:

"Gentlemen, this meeting has been called to perfect arrangements for the production of the new issue of bonds, authorized by the legislature. The matter could not be attended to at the last regular meeting of this body, because the governor had not signed the bill. Inotice that several members of the body are absent, and I suggest that action upon the subject be deferred until they come in, as we have other business to attend to. Here is a supplemental report of the board of building inspectors concerning the Norcross building."

The ayor handed the paper to Clerk Goldsmith as he spoke, and the clerk read the paper. In the paper the members of the board said that they did not pronounce the building a first-class one, but that they did not consider it dangerous: that they did not recomment that the walls be straightened, but that the top story should not be used for heavy storage.

"I see Mr. Norcross present," said. Mr. Middlebrooks, "and I move that the rules by suspended in order that he may address the body, if he so wishes."

The motion prevailed, and Mr. Norcross described the condition of his building, declaring

WEST END NOTES.

Mr. W. I., Stanton and family have gone to New Orleans to spend the winter. They will re-turn to West End in the early spring.

The regular meeting of conneil will occur on Monday night, January 8rd, at which time the newly elected council will be inaugurated.

The West End and Atlanta street car company are now running their cars on Ashby street, hereby occupying a portion of their line as recently extended.

The Central railroad company expresses a willingness to tunnel their road at its intersection with Gorden street, and it is hoped this muchneeded improvement will soon be completed. The Chautauqua Literary circle varied their usual programme of literary exercises on Monday evening last by indulging in a frolic of candy pulling, to which they invited a number of guests.

Park Street Methodist church is indebted to Captain T. J., James for a handsome new church organ, which he has generously donated to the church. The organ has arrived, and will be placed in readiness for the usual church services on Sunday next. The many members of that church and congregation will appreciate this timely and valued gift of Captain James.

Captain James.

Whitehall street has been extended from its old terminus at its junction with the Central railroad at the city limits, on through West End on the eastern side of the railroad, and it has also been opened and made passable as far as Mr. J. A. Perdue's, a mile beyond West End limits. The East Point road, where it has heretofore crossed the railroad, near Mr. Perdue's, has been extended along the west side of the railroad, so that persons traveling to and from Atlanta and East Point need not cross the railroad at any point whatever.

The spring or second term of West End academy commences Monday, January 3d. Persons sending pupils must buy tickets for January. February and March, all at once. The new desks have arrived, and every available space will be utilized to accommodate every pupil without rendering any uncomfortable. The second model with the specific model in advance. The grown of this school has been even more rapid than it at of West End itself. The school already numbers over 200 pupils in actual attendance.

The Eighth Wonder of the World.

I would like to ask of thinking, sensible people, isn't it a wonder that so many thousands of people, both male and female, will and do, daily suffer the great trouble and inconvenience, to say nothing of the pain and very serious consequences, caused by that most worrying and loathesome disease, piles or hemorrhoids, when they have offered them at their door a plain, simple, sure and permanent cure. Dr. Watson, of New York, has permanently located in Atlants, office rooms No. 104 Whitehall street. By calling on him they will learn how easily, safely and surely all old or recent cases can be permanently cured without the old painful and cruel practice of the knife, ligature, carbolic acid, and other long, tedious and painful operations. Dr. Watson has made the treatment of rectal diseases a specialty for ten years. His treatment is almost painless, and does not detain one an hour from active business. Will furnish best of references rom persons treated and cured among your own people. You can see them yourself.
